Ag Business Government and Politics is a one-semester college prep course, which satisfies the state mandated Social Sciences requirement for 12th grade. Students will be expected to demonstrate an understanding of the Constitution, the three branches of government, federalism, civil rights, civil liberties political beliefs, political parties, interest groups, institutions of government, public policy and local government. The course is developed as a complete web-based course with multimedia instruction, assignments, discussion and quizzes delivered on-line. Emphasis is placed on critical and evaluative thinking skills, essay writing, and interpretation of original documents.?? Students will be required to make inferences based on basic government policies and how they are applicable to the agriculture industry.

Pre-Requisites

Successful completion of a High School US History - Required

Co-Requisites

* Context for Course

This course will enable the student to pursue a deeper understanding of the institutions of American Government.?? Each will do an in-depth study of the system of government in the world today and analyze the life and changing interpretations of the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, and the current state of the legislative, executive and judiciary branches of government.?? An emphasis is placed on analyzing the relationship among federal, state, and local governments and their relationship to agriculture and agribusiness.?? This course will create civic literacy as students prepare to vote, participate in community activities and assume the responsibilities of citizenship.?? This is a graduation requirement

* History of Course Development

The Ag business Government and Politics class was created as a capstone course for Ag students.?? It is designed in a way to meet all the graduation requirements and content standards of a normal Government course but also have an emphasis in ag.?? When creating this capstone course we, the Ag teacher, counselors, and administrators, thought this would be a great way to tie government practices in with something where those policies are so pertinent.?? Agriculturalists are faced with government policies and politics day in and day out.?? What a great way for students to learn and understand how both work hand in hand.

* Course Purpose

In this course:

? Students explain the fundamental principles and moral values of American democracy as expressed in the U.S. Constitution and other essential documents of American democracy.

? Students evaluate and take and defend positions on the scope and limits of rights and obligations as democratic citizens, the relationships among them, and how they are secured. Students will defend agriculture policies based on those set by local, state and national government

? Students evaluate and take and defend positions on what the fundamental values and principles of civil society are (i.e., the autonomous sphere of voluntary personal, social, and economic relations that are not part of government), their interdependence, and the meaning and importance of those values and principles for a free society.?? Students will apply these principles to the various ag industries.

? Students analyze the unique roles and responsibilities of the three branches of government as established by the U.S. Constitution.

? Students summarize landmark U.S. Supreme Court interpretations of the Constitution and its amendments.

? Students evaluate issues regarding campaigns for national, state, and local elective offices. As well as those issues that pertain to production agriculture

? Students analyze and compare the powers and procedures of the national, state, tribal, and local governments.

Students evaluate and take and defend positions on the influence of the media on American political life and agriculture life.

? Students analyze the origins, characteristics, and development of different political systems across time, with emphasis on the quest for political democracy, its advances, and its obstacles.

? Students formulate questions about and defend their analyses of tensions within our constitutional democracy and the importance of maintaining a balance between the following concepts: majority rule and individual rights; liberty and equality; state and national authority in a federal system; civil disobedience and the rule of law; freedom of the press and the right to a fair trial; the relationship of religion and government

* Instructional Methods and/or Strategies

College Model of Education: Personalized Learning Model emphasizes independent study while attending Resource Center classes twice weekly. Students may choose to meet weekly with their Personalized Learning Teacher and/or Highly Qualified Teacher instead. The same instructional methods are used in either case.

? Presentation: Concepts and reading assignments are introduced, explained, and demonstrated during weekly class/teacher (Personalized Learning and Highly Qualified) meetings. Following the information, corresponding questions, writing assignments, and activities are given to evaluate comprehension.

? Discussion: Students analyze, discuss, and respond to issues and ideas stimulated by presentations and readings. Students work in small groups or one-on-one whenever possible to increase participation.

? Reading: Students read all required reading: primary novels in their entirety.

supplemental materials in part, some text books in their entirety.

? Writing: Students use their writing skills and critical thinking strategies as they respond to literature and discussion topics and text book readings. Activities vary from summary, short answer to extended essay. Research papers, response to literature, and literary analysis, Papers are graded according to rubrics detailing: expected organization of work; clarity of thesis statement; format of formal papers; content or message; flow of writing; and grammar and punctuation conventions.

? Oral Presentation: Students present information during weekly class meetings both formally and informally. Presentations include Power Point, debate, and discussion, and always include an outline or handout and audio-visual aides.

? Library/Internet Research: Students research topics that are relevant to the reading assignments and give written and oral reports of their findings.

Research papers and techniques, speech techniques and public speaking practice, using and applying technology, incorporation of marketing and sales skills along with the above assignments
