

K-8 Home Study

The roots of our program reside in the home study model, with K-8 located in Chico on Humboldt Avenue, and in Paradise on Pearson Road. These programs offer an hour or more per week support for some elective and academic subjects, while the parents provide the daily academic instruction for all subjects. Personalized Learning Teachers work with the parents to select state standards aligned curriculum, assignments, and assessments. Work is completed by the student every academic day of the school year, under the supervision of the parent.

CBHS and 9-12 Independent Study

CBHS (CORE Butte High School) is located on Cohasset Road and was designed as a hybrid "college" model school for grades 9-12. An independent home study model is also offered through CBHS. The college model program allows students to attend three or more classes per week on site. The parent is still very involved in supervising and correcting homework, participating in meetings regularly with the teacher and student, and becoming engaged with the overall high school program. CBHS also provides a small high school culture for students that is safe, promotes responsibility, and offers many opportunities.

"Just knowing I could contact our personalized learning teacher any time gave me so much peace of mind!"

CORE offers a personalized educational program designed for each student. Families are assigned to a credentialed teacher who provides constant direction for the parent/student/teacher team. CORE supports a collaborative relationship between parents, student, teacher, and school in creating an optimal learning process.

“The many curriculum choices and the staff dedication exceeded our expectations.”

Reseach Confirms

- Every individual assimilates information according to his or her own unique learning style, need and interest.
- Children look to their parents as their primary role models for learning. Parents, in turn, are ultimately responsible for guiding their child’s learning and education.
